SLEEPYTIME TONIC

Developed to relax and calm an over anxious dog, Sleepytime Tonic is a blend of all natural ingredients that help to calm both dogs and humans. There are underlying nervous system predispositions and weaknesses which cause anxiety in dogs, some of these are the result of breeding and some are genetic. These predispositions exhibit themselves in the repeated reaction patterns of fear, apprehension, aggression or hyperactivity.

Sleepy Time Tonic works to nourish the nervous system and is an excellent complement to retraining to break habits like barking, cowering or aggression. You will see results after only a few days but here are a few suggestions for longer term solutions.

- Start by giving your dog Sleepy Time Tonic twice per day.
- Two weeks after starting the elixirs, hire an experienced dog trainer who uses natural training methods. Retraining your dog to react differently in stressful situations will break the habit and is much simpler when accompanied by a habit breaking homeopathic remedy like Sleepy Time Tonic.
- Just a few weeks of professional training (which you then continue with your dog), coupled with herbal elixirs given for 3 or 4 months, should be sufficient to break the nervous habit reactions, leaving the dog and your whole household much more relaxed and calm.
- As the dog's personality changes, you may reduce the dose to once per day.

RE-BOUND

A few drops of Re-Bound will invigorate an older dog or help bring vitality back to a lethargic dog. You will see results after only a few days but here are a few suggestions for longer term solutions.

- A dog which looks depressed and is sleeping more than normal could be ill, it's important to have a veterinarian check for any serious underlying illness.
- Start by giving your dog Re-Bound twice per day.
- Restrict feeding to one meal a day and resist the temptation to feed snacks or treats between meals. Meals should be as natural as possible (ie: raw meat and raw bones) The modern dog's environment and feeding patterns are very different than those of dogs in the wild, who often have empty stomachs and are always on the move searching for their next meal.
- Give your dog one-to-one attention in the form of play and exercise.

HEALTHY SKIN SHINY COAT

A dull coat may be a sign of toxins in the blood which can affect the normal health of the dog's skin and coat. Modern processed dog food and insufficient exercise are the primary reasons that these toxins accumulate in a dog's system. Also, since dogs don't cool themselves by perspiring through sweat glands, they cannot eliminate toxins through sweating in the way that humans do.

Healthy Skin Shiny Coat works by supporting the elimination of toxins through the kidneys and bowels so that the blood supply to the hair roots is clean and healthy. Here are a few suggestions that will improve your dog's long-term health.

- Start by giving your dog Healthy Skin Shiny Coat twice per day.
- After a week, if your dog is eating kibble, change to a raw food diet. (A reputable pet store can make some suggestions)
- Make sure your dog is drinking plenty of water, to help flush out his system.
- Exercise your dog at least twice per day.
- If your dog's skin is irritated, use a skin healing cream (like bowWOW Butter Balm) this will heal the damaged skin as the internal conditions are addressed.
- If your dog's shampoo contains harsh chemicals, change to Comfy Dog Oatmeal shampoo for Dry & Itchy skin.
- As the dog's sparkle returns, you may reduce the dose to once per day or as needed.
